OUR AUTHORS

SYNOPSIS OF THE JOURNAL

N. L. Ermolaeva
I.A. Goncharov and L.N. Tolstoy

Key words: Oblomov; Pierre Bezukhov; laziness; sofa; dressing gown; people; folk tales.

The article deals with I.A. Goncharov's attitude to the creative work of L.N. Tolstoy. The paper demonstrates the similarity of the image of Pierre Bezukhov to the one of Oblomov as well as the similarity of the later sketches by Goncharov to the «folk tales» by Tolstoy.

G.N. Ermolenko
The Plot Structure in Bunin's Collection of Short Stories «Dark Alleys»

Key words: narratology; «Dark Alleys»; invariant plot; actant system; structure of motifs; reduced plot; anagram.

The article discusses the system of actants and the structure of motifs in the invariant plot in Bunin's collection of short stories «Dark Alleys». The article also analyzes different ways of plot reduction in short miniatures and anagrammatic nature of the titles of short stories.

L.G. Kayanidi
Semiprecious Combinations in Vyacheslav Ivanov's Poetry:
sapphire cups and lal of chalice

Key words: poetic image; symbology; precious stone; Vyacheslav Ivanov; sapphire; ruby; chalice; Christ; Theotokos.

The analysis of the figurative and symbolical connection of sapphire and ruby is presented in the article. They gravitate towards a common being in Ivanov's poetic world and are connected with the image of chalice. The sapphire is a material of which the chalice is made and the ruby is its decoration and filling. The stones are both correlated with the idea of the incarnation of God, the unity of God and man, eternity and time, Christ and Theotokos.

A.V. Radionova
Thematic Complexes «Life» and «Existence»
in the Poetry and Philosophy of A.F. Losev

Key words: A.F. Losev; lyrics; philosophy; theme; motive; contextual semantic complex; ontological symbol.

The article discusses the themes of «life» and «existence» in the poetry and philosophy of A.F. Losev, their contextual environment. Sustainable thematic complexes, repeated in poetry and prose have been found: 'life – sleep – alarm'; 'dawn – the birth of existence – sleep – alarm – mental illness'; 'the suffering of the flesh – mystery – sleep – sound – mind'. The paper demonstrates that a number of adjacent topics are ontological symbols, revealing the diverse philosophical characteristics of the central themes of «life» and «existence».

N.I. Astakhan
Lyrical Dystopia of I. Elagin «The Sky»

Key words: lyrical dystopia; world picture; concept art; ekphrasis.

The article investigates poetic triptych by I. Elagin «The Sky» which is regarded as a kind of lyrical dystopia, the aesthetic subtext of which is the K. Malevich painting «Black square». On the basis of the definition of the role of ekphrasis in the work the Artistic concept is outlined, which involves the binding reference between picture of the world in a work of Art and reality. Its recognition by the recipient may be conditioned by its temporal characteristics. The specificity of poetic dystopia by I. Elagin as «lyrical» is based on the experience of striving for harmonization of being as common to all people within the boundaries of the «big time» (M.M. Bakhtin) and human «unity» (V.S. Solovyov).

L.G. Smirnova
Remarks on the Relationship between Evaluative Semantics and Grammar

Key words: assessment in language; evaluative pragmatics; parts of speech; the evaluative potential of notional and auxiliary parts of speech.

The article dwells on the relationship between evaluative semantics and the grammatical characteristics of language units. It reveals an ability of the words belonging to various notional and auxiliary parts of speech to transmit the evaluative pragmatic signal.

I.A. Koroleva
National Mentality in Proper Names

Key words: cultural studies with linguistic aspects; Russian; mentality; linguocultural code; proper name; informational field; anthroponym; toponym.

The present article considers the role of Russian mentality in the formation of the linguistic personality within the framework of an anthropocentric direction in the language and new linguocultural research. On the basis of the analysis of linguocultural code of proper names as well as their various classes (anthroponyms and toponyms) the article demonstrates how a broad informational field of onomastics is formed and makes it possible to keep and relay linguocultural information, to create the connotational layer of onyms reflecting national (Russian) mentality.

A.E. Varnaeva
The Relationship of the Volume of Generic Element and the Volume of Composed Range

Key words: coordinating design; set; element of the set; generic element; equal components; relationship; volume.

There are three kinds of relationship of the volume of generic element and the volume of equal components: compliance, discrepancy, unknown relationship. There are special means of expression of relationships: numerals, cetera, tantum, etc. Generic word as part of the generic element focuses our attention on the similarity of the mentioned elements of the set.

L.A. Makhina

Aspects of Research of the Communicative and Pragmatic Attitude «Hostility» in Modern Linguistics

Key words: communicative behavior; disharmonic communication; hostility; aggression; aggressiveness; anger.

The article analyzes the main approaches to the research of the «hostility» phenomenon in modern science, in which closely related but not identical concepts of «hostility», «aggression», «aggressiveness», «anger» have been recently distinguished. On the basis of the conducted research the author has come to the conclusion that «hostility», in terms of linguistics, can be considered a communicative and pragmatic attitude realized in language behavior of communication participants. It is caused by a special «ego state» of communicants created during communication owing to various external or internal reasons (e.g., hostility as manifestation of personal enmity; hostility as a reaction to provocation of an interlocutor in case of dissonant communication; intentional creation of hostile statements by a communicant to fulfill his or her intentions and to achieve communicative objectives, etc.)

V.S. Andreev

Correlation of Features in Metaphoric Model

Key words: correlation; Cole coefficient; metaphor; model; features at different linguistic levels.

The article deals with the correlation analysis of metaphoric models with the aim to reveal the features of authorial cognition, single out statistically relevant tendencies in the creation of image system of text, which reflect the similarities and differences between the elements of the author's mental picture of the world. The analysis demonstrates the existence of a complex system of interrelations between the elements of metaphoric model and makes it possible to reveal the oppositions between the characteristics of lexical units, which realize the target domain and the source domain.

T.S. Bushueva

Hipster vs Hickster: Social Antagonisms of America as Reflected by Pejorative Vocabulary

Key words: social antagonisms; pejorative vocabulary; pragmatic inversion; translation lacunas.

The article deals with the role of social antagonisms in modern America as generators of pejorative vocabulary denoting representatives of low-status social groups, their habits and occupations as well as the processes taking place within this lexical field under the influence of social and cultural factors. The problems of the difficulties arising in translation are also touched upon.

P.V. Silaev
Broadening Language Norm Bounds for Stylistic Purposes
in Modern English Language Novels

Key words: language norm; linguistic lapses; stylistic potential; semi marked structures; function; linguocreative thinking.

The article deals with the dynamic character of language norm, its creative potential in three English language novels. Frequent deviations from language canons become a central poetic device for portraying its main heroes. Due to this stylistic device the reader gets significant codes for the perception and evaluation of the most tragic emotional scenes in the narration. Such deviations from standard literary language possess special expressive, pragmatic, and aesthetic potential, they stimulate readers' linguocreative thinking and new understanding of functional and stylistic means of modern literary language.

I.A. Schipowa
About the Syntactic Structure of the Basic Plan of the Narrative Literary Text (on the Database of the German Language)

Key words: fiction text genre; basic plane of narration; background plane narrative; compositional and speech form of the narrative; declarative statement; parataxis; hypotaxis.

The article discusses the problem of dissection of narrative fiction text in the foreground and background narrative planes. It is assumed that the basic plane of the narrative text is realized in the form of report and has a tendency of predominance of declarative sentences, parataxis, certain hypotaxis, among which temporal clauses are the most frequent ones.

N.E. Makarova
The Chronotope in the Structure of the Novel of Boris Vian
«L'Automne à Pékin »

Key words: French literature; Boris Vian; stylistic features; chronotope; local and temporal lexicon.

This article examines text-forming function of space and time in the novel «L'Automne à Pékin» by Boris Vian, a prominent French writer of the twentieth century. The analysis allows us to conclude that locally-temporal structures, which form the chronotope of the novel, play an important role in the creation of temporal and spatial relations abstracted from the reality. One of the means to achieve this goal is the author's appeal to a metaphorical reinterpretation of the used lexical resources.

HISTORY AND ARCHEOLOGY

S.A. Polskaya
East Frankish Model of Political Ceremony: ordo Mainz 960

Key words: ordo of Mainz; Otto I; St. Bonifazi; inaugural ceremony; ritual; the anointing; coronation.
