A dream come true

As a teenager, my brother Al used to invent little things as a pastime. After the gadget phase, he started making toy airplanes out of wood or plastic. His creations were quite impressive for someone so young. His room was always full of books about famous pilots and jet airplanes. His dream was to sell his model airplanes in his own shop one day, so he was determined to learn all about flying, and even designed all his models on a 3-D computer program, before he built them.

Neither of my parents opposed Al's decision. They both believed that people should be keen on their jobs, but our father wanted him to get a university degree first. Our mother thought that a good education was necessary, especially because she had doubts about if he could earn a good living with his airplanes. On the other hand, she couldn't see how becoming a lawyer or a doctor for example, would help Al with the job he wanted to do.

When Al finished school, he finally decided to get a degree in architecture. During his studies, Al continued his hobby in his spare time, but also got involved in other things. He played football for a while and joined the drama club; though he soon decided that acting wasn't for him.

As soon as Al graduated, he and another dozen students took a tour of Europe. The highlight of Al's trip was France. He even considered moving there for a short time to improve his skills in French, but he wanted to return home to prove to himself that he could succeed as a businessman. Three years later, Al accomplished his goal, and today, he is so successful, that he has five shops in our city and is planning to open more around the country. Who knows, maybe one day his model airplanes will be famous around the world.

Answer the following questions:

1. Did Al's parents approve his decision?
2. What degree did Al decide to get after school?
3. Why didn't he stay in France after graduation?

The average British family

Let me introduce my neighbours, Mr and Mrs Brown. They live in a semi-detached house in the south of England. They own their house which is situated in the suburbs of a large town. There are three bedrooms in the house. The Browns have two children and a pet. The family drives a two-year-old Ford Cortina.

The head of the family, John Brown, is thirty-five. He is a good-looking man, six foot tall, well-built, fair-haired and blue-eyed. He is quiet and thoughtful. Mr Brown works in the office of an engineerrts at 9.00 in the morning and finishes his job but there are chances of promotion.

His wife is four years younger. She is tall and slim with wavy brown hair and soft dark-brown works locally and goes there by bus. She quite likes her work as it gets her out of the house, she meets people and it is clos

Their son Michael is eleven. He is rather tall for his age and he looks like his mother. He is a clever boy and is good at nearly all subjects at school. In fact, he is one of the best pupils in his class.

His sister Margaret is only six. She is a lovely little girl with golden hair and dark blue eyes and a loves music and she dances very prettily.

The children go to a state school which is a few minutes from home. A special bus comes to pick them up every day. They are at school from 9.00 to 3.00.

The most popular evening entertainment of the Browns is watching television or video, which they usually do for two and a half hours a day. Two evenings a week Mr Brown meets friends for a drink and potters in their small garden. The most popular sports are fishing, football and tennis.

Answer the following questions:

1. How old is Mrs Brown?
2. How do children get to school?
3. How often does Mr Brown goes to the local pub?

Big Ben

The big clock on the tower of the Palace of Westminster in London is often called Big Ben. But Big Ben is really the bell of the clock. It is the biggest clock bell in Britain. It weighs 13.5 tons.

The clock tower is 318 feet high. You have to go up 374 steps to reach the top. So the clock looks small from the pavement below the tower.

But its face is 23 feet wide. It would only just fit into some classrooms.

The minute-hand is 14 feet long. Its weight is equal to that of two bags of coal. The hour-hand is 9 feet long.

The clock bell is called Big Ben after Sir Benjamin Hall. He had the job to see that the bell was put up.

Sir Benjamin was a big man. One day he said in Parliament, "Shall we call the bell St. Stephen's?" St. Stephen's is the name of the tower.

But someone said for a joke, "Why not call it Big Ben?" Now the bell is known all over the world by that name.

The WTO today

The World Trade Organization (WTO) is the only global international organization dealing with the rules of trade between nations. At its heart are the WTO agreements, negotiated and signed by the bulk of the world's trading nations and ratified in their parliaments. The goal is to help producers of goods and services, exporters and importers conduct their business.

Does the fight against global terrorism threaten global trade? Unfortunately, it does. Countries everywhere are tightening their border controls on the movement of goods, capital and people. Companies are starting to stand off for protection against 'unfair' international competitors as the world economy slips into recession. The U.S. government, a bastion of laissez-faire economics in the global economy, is talking less about open borders and free-flowing capital and more about fiscal activism and regulatory initiatives. And protests against globalization are starting to pick up again.

All this explains why the stakes are unusually high at the ministerial meetings of the World Trade Organization. The fight against terrorism needn't slow down the trend toward an integrated world economy. Government leaders should take the talks as an opportunity to further liberalize trade in agriculture, goods, and services, especially now that China and Russia are ready to join the WTO. Terrorism should not be allowed to threaten globalization.
