Let me introduce my neighbours, Mr and Mrs Brown. They live in a semi-detached house in the south of England. There are three bedrooms in the house. The Browns have a child and a pet. The family drives a two-year-old Ford Cortina.

The head of the family, John Brown, is thirty-five. He is a good-looking man, six foot tall, well-built, fair-haired and blue-eyed. He is quiet and thoughtful. Mr Brown works in the office of an engineering company. promotion.

His wife is four years younger. She is tall and slim with wavy brown hair and soft dark-brown eyes. She is kind and gentle. She works in a service industry for three days a week.

Their son Michael is eleven. He is rather tall for his age and he looks like his mother. He is a clever boy and is good at nearly all subjects at school. In fact, he is one of the best pupils in his class.

The most popular evening entertainment of the Browns is watching television or video, which they usually do for two and a half hours a day. Two evenings a week Mr Brown meets

YOUTH ORGANIZATIONS IN GREAT BRITAIN

Youth and youth movement have become important factors in the life of Great Britain. There are about 60 youth organizations in Great Britain.

All youth organizations can be divided into three large groups: non-political organizations; youth organizations associated with political parties; youth organizations controlled by religious bodies.

The two largest non-political youth organizations are the associations of the Boy Scouts and the Girl Guides. There are about 1300000 boys and girls in them.

There are several youth organizations associated with political parties. The Youth Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament (YCND) unites young people and organizes mass rallies and meetings, demonstrations, marches of protest, festivals.

Religious organizations pay attention not only to the study of religious views but involve youth into such activities as music festivals and theatre. In general, all youth organizations aim at preserving and strengthening the social and political system existing in the country. Many of them have done and still are doing useful work in providing leisure facilities for young English people.

WHAT DOES THE QUEEN DO?

Britain is a constitutional monarchy. This means that the head of state is the Queen. But in reality she has very little power. She has to put her signature on new laws, even if she doesn't like them. Every autumn she opens Parliament, but the speech she makes from the throne, is written by the Prime Minister.

The Queen is a symbol of Britain's long history and tradition and her most important function is ceremonial.

THE NEW FACE OF LONDON

With the arrival the new millennium London's face has changed. From now on, the UK's capital is going to be an even more exciting place to visit. The observation wheel on the bank of the River Thames is more than double the height of Big Ben! It's called the London Eye and on a clear day you'll be able to see 7 countries from its top! The Wheel doesn't stop for passengers instead they just walk into the large egg-shaped glass capsules while it is in motion. A full trip takes 30 minutes.

The Millennium Dome is probably the most ambitious of all millennium projects. It's the largest building of its kind in the world. It's as high as Nelson's Column, could swallow 2 Wembley Stadiums, 3300 double-decker buses and still have some spare room!

The Millennium Bridge is a thin blade of steel with wooden decking. It's the first pedestrian-only bridge to be built across the Thames for more than 100 years.

THE WHITE HOUSE

Originally the White House was grey and was called the Presidential Palace. It was built from 1792 to 1800. At this time, the city of Washington itself was being built. It was to be the nation's new capital city.

A contest was held to pick a design for the president's home. An architect named James Hoban won. He designed a large three-story house of grey stone. The first president to live there was John Adams, the second president of the United States, and his wife. Mrs Adams did not really like her new house. She often complained about the cold. Fifty fireplaces were not enough to keep the house warm!

In 1812 the United States and Britain went to war. In 1814 the British invaded Washington. They burned many buildings, including the Presidential Palace. After the war James Hoban partially rebuilt the president's home. To cover the marks of the fire, the building was painted white. Before long it became known as the White House.

THE STATUE OF LIBERTY

People who come to New York by sea are greeted by the Statue of Liberty. It has become a symbol of the city and an expression of freedom to people all over the world. The statue shows liberty as a proud woman draped in the graceful folds of a loose robe. In her uplifted right hand, she holds a glowing torch. She wears a crown with seven spikes that stand for the light of liberty shining on the seven seas and seven continents. In her left arm, she holds a tablet with the date of the Declaration of Independence. A chain that represents tyranny lies broken at her feet.

The Statue of Liberty was France's gift to America. It was designed by the French sculptor Bartholdi and presented to the USA in 1886.

There is a museum in the base of the statue devoted to the history of immigration to the United States.

The Lady of the Harbour is tourists' favourite souvenir. It takes the form of salt shakers and pencil sharpeners, adorns plates and T-shirts.
